Fun facts about owls

Owls are birds of prey.

Owls don't have teeth so they swallow their prey whole.

Owls are helpful to humans by helping control the rodent population.

Owls hunt at night so that they don't cast shadows.

Owls' eyes are fixed forward so they have to move their head to see in different directions.

Owls can turn their heads almost three-quarters of the way around without moving their bodies.

Owls' feathers are designed to muffle the sound of their flying.

Owls mate for life with the female owls being larger and heavier than the male.
